RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Research Projects at the RAND Corporation

- 2016–2017 Marriage and fertility in Korea: A life-cycle model of women's education, work, and family decision
– Team: I Lopez-Garcia (PI), D Knapp, J Lee, M Hurd, K Kumar, E Amaral
– Client: Korea Institute for Health and Social Affairs (KIHASA)
– Role: We develop a model of decision making for Korean women throughout their life course, including whether to work, to get married, and to have children.
- 2016–2017 Measuring urban complexity
– Team: A Frank (PI), T Gulden, E Amaral, J Willcox, S Chonde
– Client: RAND-Initiated Research (RIR) Program
– Role: This project is an exploratory effort investigating a scheme for measuring and comparing the physical and social complexity of cities (London, Los Angeles, São Paulo). The work includes theoretical development, city selection, data gathering, and spatial analysis.
- 2016–2017 How do we solve affordable housing?
– Team: N Burger (PI), H Schwartz, E Amaral, L Ecola
– Client: RAND-Initiated Research (RIR) Program
– Role: This project addresses affordable housing through increasing supply, including: (1) literature review on economic research about increased supply of housing and on how specific policies increase housing supply; (2) conduct interviews with policymakers; (3) disseminate findings through an interactive website.
- 2016–2017 Economic integration of refugees in Europe
– Team: E Amaral (PI), S Culbertson, M Woldetsadik, G Armenta, E Erkut
– Client: The Pardee Global Human Progress Initiative, Pardee RAND Graduate School
– Role: This project aims to provide policymakers and researchers an overall understanding of integration issues experienced by refugees in host countries by conducting a literature review, an investigation of economic situations of refugees, and an analysis of labor force surveys of native populations
- 2016–2017 Intergenerational effects of internal migration on labor and health outcomes in Indonesia
– Team: E Amaral (PI), M Weden, C Peterson
– Client: RAND Center for the Study of Aging
– Role: We explore how later life health trajectories are associated with migration, early life experiences, and economic and demographic changes, utilizing five waves of the Indonesian Family Life Survey
- 2016 Reweighting of the 2014 ACS uninsured & off-marketplace non-group population to account for the impact of the Affordable Care Act
– Team: C Price (PI), EFL Amaral
– Client: Department of Health and Human Services
– Role: Calibration of survey weights using iterative proportional fitting (raking) statistical package
- 2016 The formal-informal labor nexus and growth: The case of Bangladesh
– Team: K Kumar (PI), S Nataraj (PI), I Gutierrez, EFL Amaral, and several others
– Client: UK Department for International Development
– Role: Generation of maps with the location of households surveyed to understand the role of informal economic sector in growth and its interactions with formal economic sector in a micro and macro perspective
- 2015 Develop an evaluation design for military spouse education and career opportunities (SECO) programs
– Team: GC Gonzalez (PI), LL Miller (PI), D Knapp, ME Totten, JW Wenger, EFL Amaral, and several others
– Client: Office of Secretary of Defense
– Role: Estimation of models and marginal effects to evaluate the potential for My Career Advancement Account (MyCAA) to support the educational and employment outcomes for eligible military spouses
- 2015 Building analytic capacity for monitoring & evaluating the implementation of the Affordable Care Act
– Team: CE Eibner (PI), JW Timbie (PI), C Price, EFL Amaral, and several others
– Client: Department of Health and Human Services
– Role: Calibration of survey weights using iterative proportional fitting (raking) statistical package

- 2014–2015 Does inequality in opportunity follows inequality in income? An analysis of global trends in income mobility, perceived economic opportunity and income inequality
- Team: F Perez-Arce (PI), EFL Amaral
 - Client: RAND-Initiated Research
 - Role: Meta-regression analysis of intergenerational transmission of income and the “Great-Gatsby Curve”
- 2014–2015 Current and projected characteristics and unique health care needs of the patient population served by the Department of Veterans Affairs
- Team: C Farmer (PI), CE Eibner (PI), H Krull (PI), M Pollard, EFL Amaral, J Mendelsohn, M Cefalu, and several others
 - Data: 2000 U.S. Demographic Census; 2005–2013 American Community Surveys; Defense Manpower Data Center
 - Client: U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs; MITRE Corporation
 - Role: Projection of the 2014–2024 Veterans’ population by age, gender, race/ethnicity, service era, and Public Use Microdata Areas
- 2014–2015 Analysis of employment barriers for people with disability in the Department of Defense
- Team: N Lim (PI), M Matthews (PI), EFL Amaral, and several others
 - Data: Office of Personnel Management (OPM) database; 2008–2013 American Community Surveys
 - Client: Office of Secretary of Defense
 - Role: Calibration of survey weights using iterative proportional fitting (raking) statistical package
- 2014–2015 Analysis of employment barriers for Hispanic population in the Department of Defense
- Team: M Matthews (PI), BR Orvis (PI), EFL Amaral, and several others
 - Data: Office of Personnel Management; 2008–2013 American Community Surveys
 - Client: Office of Secretary of Defense
 - Role: Calibration of survey weights using iterative proportional fitting (raking) statistical package

Research Projects at the Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG), Brazil

- 2014–2016 Demographic transition, labor market, and human capital concentration in developing countries
– Team: BL Queiroz (PI), EFL Amaral, AB Golgher
– Data: 1970–2010 Brazilian Demographic Censuses; Brazilian Household Surveys (PNAD)
- 2012–2014 Determinants of female sterilization in Brazil
– Team: EFL Amaral (PI), JE Potter
– Data: 2006 Brazilian Demographic and Health Surveys
- 2010–2014 Evaluation of conditional cash transfer programs in Latin America
– Team: EFL Amaral (PI)
– Data: 2005 and 2009 Household Surveys by the Brazilian Ministry of Social Development; 2010 Brazilian Demographic Census
- 2009–2014 Evaluation of affirmative action policies in Brazilian universities
– Team: EFL Amaral (PI), AB Golgher
– Data: 2009–2010 socioeconomic and grade point average data from UFMG students
- 2012–2013 Projection of Brazilian population using PADIS-INT software, developed by the China Population and Development Research Center (CPDR)
– Team: EFL Amaral (PI), JO Muniz, BL Queiroz, LLR Wong, JIR Rigotti, MGB Figoli
– Data: 1980–2010 Brazilian Demographic Censuses
- 2011–2013 Impacts of educational and demographic transitions on economic development
– Team: EFL Amaral (PI), JE Potter, ELG Rios-Neto
– Data: 1970–2000 Brazilian Demographic Censuses
- 2011–2013 Evaluation of housing policies implemented by the Brazilian growth acceleration program
